PARRAMATTA.
[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]
P.O. Court.—Monday, 25th August. Before Mr. F. Oakes and Langley.—James Kenny, convicted of stealing a handbasket from a baker's shop, sentenced to three calendar months' imprisonment, hard labour.
26th. Before Mr. J. Langley.—A Chinaman, confined for drunkenness, was discharged. Ritaan, for being drunk and disorderly, was fined for four months.

day, 30th. Before the Mayor and Mason, on Lord Langley,—John Williams was charged with the dictation of a letter, but, appearing to refuse under unnatural circumstances, the charge proceeded with. One drunkard was discharged, Mr. Davern, given into custody by Richard Allen, on account of stealing $64, and two little deeds, on or about the 25th inst. It appears that a box was missed by Allen on the previous night in his house, in which he had kept it up, and which he found broken open. Defendant was working there the day after. After being given into custody the money and the found under a bag, upon which a brick was placed, at the back of the premises. It appears I also saw the woman who was the owner of the premises the day, and that complainant's wife was drinking there. William Best summoned complainant and John Pike for illegally cutting a fence down. Defendant appeared before the court, and after a lengthy examination of the complainant, was dismissed. Michael Killen was summoned for threatening George W. Campbell, and was ordered to enter into his own recognizance to be peace for three months. William Campbell, husband in the invalid establishment, summoned Allen, on the 25th inst., for assaulting and striking him with a crucifix. The defendant on the influence of liquor at the time, having been absent on leave from the establishment. Sentenced to one month's imprisonment. Four other cases were called, but the parties did not appear.

The frosts have been keener than usual, and per consequence, and when a change came it was frost to cold rains. As a consequence, farmers had the crops in the ground, and so, as they were at this time last season, for being up ground the weather has been favourable, there is no doubt but that this season we shall at least have much under crop as we had last. From turns of 1861, just published, we find that these of show a diminution on the quantities of wheat and down, and an increase in that of barley. The above shows the two years show a difference in the wheat of 34 in the bush, and in barley of 16, in favour of the seller; and in barley, in favour of the buyer. The cultivation of was extended in 1861 by an increase of 600 acres, the quantity last year under sown being 68,823 acres, yielding 33,500 bushels. There has been an increase of about 1800 acres of potatoes. There has been a diminution in the quantity of turnips, we believe from fear of effects of the ravages of the sheep. There has also been an increase of 1000 acres and of the quantity of land under English grass. The want of turnips has been felt by many farmers, as, from the cold winter, their stock are not so well supplied, and the want not at hand.

Lowmston Reporter of the 23rd says, "We find that, within the last few days, a new coal mine recently discovered by a digger at Major's Gully; no mineral found burns like wax; that the same is left in the ground, and is not fit for use."

expected to arrive in town for the purpose of tested during the course of the present week. It is stated that such results will be of great advantage to the company, and that the company's ganga coal establish the fact, that it ignites rapidly than any of the coals found in or about county Nicholas range, and that it burns with a brighter flame.

DULLES' PERSECUTION.—The Lancaster Examiner 19th ultimo reports a remarkable instance of persistence which occurred in the Court of all Sessions of the Peace on the previous day. A man named Michael M. O'Connell, who had been in gaol at the suit of Mr. R. M. Applegate for Sir Richard Dwyer, made an application for, or, in other words, petitioned the Court to release his detaining creditor to furnish him with a sum of money while in the gaol, to enable him to pay his rent, and to get rid of a very troublesome tenant, and consequently a landlord is desirous to get rid of him if possible. That view, the solicitor of the detaining creditor has frequently offered to release him, and the detaining creditor has refused to give up interest in the lease of the farm. M'Connell has refused this offer, and when the solicitor asked the Court if he would come to any arrangement rely refused. He would make it over to his children, or any one else, so long as it did all into the hands of his loved one. Of course, these circumstances, the sheriff had no power to alter the binding creditor to support M'Gee, and accordingly sent back to prison, the chairman stating that he could no longer make an order for M'Gee's release, and that he would have to wait until the magistrate character of the man, may mention that he has nothing that he can turn into money, but the lender, and consequently has no way in which to procure food for himself and his wife. For three weeks he did not sleep, and at length some of his fellow debtors compassion on him and gave him a portion of victuals. When this was discovered by the sheriff, he communicated with the authorities, and the Court made an order directing the governor of the goal to supply M'Gee with food &c. This order was carried out until yesterday, when the petition came on for consideration. As no order had been granted, M'Gee was taken to the bar to stand or to stave or else give. At the rising of the several of the magistrates endeavored to persuade M'Gee to come to terms with Mr. Douglas, but he refused to take their advice, and declared he would surrender the lease.

ance, the Examiner expresses a hope that steps will be taken at once to prevent the possibility of danger which may arise from any similar event, by providing an adequate supply of water to prevent the flames spreading to adjacent buildings. There is no town in New Zealand that has employed this precaution. The towns of Nelson; at three or four isolated buildings consumed; at different times being the most serious calamities that have befallen it over a period of many years. This remarkable preservation of the town of Nelson, which has been so long, was, has lulled into a false security, and many appear to have lulled themselves that what never has happened, will happen; and that, from some cause or other, the town will be reduced to their wooden shanty towns to be freed from the scourge which has befallen towns of a similar character, at almost periodical intervals, suffer from so severely.

Caracas correspondent of the Baltimore Post writing on the 28th ult., says, concerning the state of the weather, "After a month's incessant snow, the last ten days have been dry and hot and at times unusually hot for this time of the year; but yesterday it became again gloomy, and we are again threatened with showers of rain. It has a wonderful effect upon the young crops. It has enabled our farmers to nearly complete their sowing, and to start the young crops, and to start sowing for the present season. The weather of the last few days has been very good, although they were very rough and broken up by the continued rains and heavy traffic that has been passing over them during the present season. The farmers can no longer get along with their crops, and their crops are in pieces. But it is to be hoped that the Government will cause good roads to be made during the present summer. Down the river most of the cattle stations are in a bad state, from want of grass.

(From the Cornhill.)

From all this there has now come a great revolution. Chemists have arisen, both in this country and in France, who declare that alcohol is not a food at all. They say that they have proved, by experimental investigation, that the whole of the alcohol which we take into the stomach runs through the body as it might through a filter, and is very shortly cast out, by the various excretions, totally uncombined. There is no union with oxygen, no combustion, no change into carbonic acid and water; therefore, alcohol cannot be a food. L'alcool n'est pas un aliment ? says M. Lellement, in a magisterial way. Alcohol, in short, is nothing.

physiological laws, is, that after a certain length of time the excitement and elevation of the nervous force would subside, leaving matters as they were before the dose; and this is precisely what moderate drinkers tell us of their own experience. In cases, indeed, where the nervous system has been worn with incessant fatigue or mental distress, or starved by an insufficient or poorly concocted blood supply, there is little doubt that even this amount of reaction does not take place, but that there is a permanent improvement of the functional power of the brain, in consequence of the administration of small doses of alcohol.

It would seem, then, that there is a radical distinction between the effect of a small and of large doses, respectively, of alcohol. Below a certain dose this substance is a pure stimulant, so far as regards its action on the nervous system. Above this dose its effect is a wholly depressing one. And this brings me to one of the most interesting and important aspects of the whole question.

There is no idea more general, and no idea more false, than that we can separate the three great classes,—foods, medicines, and poisons—from each other by rigid lines. It is hardly too much to which is not produced, by modern uses, but only by those larger quantities which are sufficient to produce some, at least, of the symptoms of intoxication. Now it is a very well known fact that a small dose of alcohol will often relieve the feelings of headache, and nausea, and depression, which accompany the recovery from a debauch. "Take a hair of the dog that bit you," is a very common maxim under such circumstances—not a very wise one, certainly, but one which is nevertheless grounded on practical experience. It is perfectly true that a glass of bitter ale will often relieve at once the intolerable morning depression of a drunkard, while
